"A Man Without a Country" Monster Feature Picture. Beginning with today's matinee, the Breed theater will show for the remainder of the week, the wonderful patriotic motion picture entitled The Man Without a Country. This is a free dramatization of the famous novel of Edward Everett Hale's by the same name. In the adaptation of the great novel, its splendid theme has been well preserved, and its inspira-tion infused in every scene. No one can see it without being a better citizen, a better man or woman, so deepnobler and higher patriotism. xpense has been spared to make the roduction notable and worthy of its ubject. The scene depicting the deck of an old-time frigate during a battle at sea is particularly strong, and will rank, in point of action, fidelity to ac-tual conditions and thoroughly sus-tained interest, among the notewor-thy achievements of the film maker's tained interest, among the noteworthy achievements of the film maker's sart.

Among the other excellent subjects is the one entitled Joan of Arc, a beautiful and wonderfully acted pleture of some of the principal incidents connected with the eventful life of the Maid of Orieans, besides numerous others, including. Maid of Orieans, besides numerous others, including some of the very best comedy seen this season. Master Harry Noonan, the wonderful boy soprano, will appear in an entire new programme of songs for the re-mainder of the week, singing one of the greatest popular hits of the day, handsomely illustrated, and a brand new concert song in which he sings several high notes, which are nothing short of marvelous.

LINCOLN PARK.

The crowds continue to go to Lin-coln park, where this week the Wil-liam Joel Daly minstrel troup is sing-ing jolly songs, cracking new jokes and furnishing royal entertainment for the patrons of the rustic theater. Joe Nelson, Al, Berger, Jack Welch and William Oswald give their solos excellent voice and the chorus is ong and even: Jack Welch's stories and sours are laugh misers. Danbury Summer School Ends.

The summer school for teachers at the Danbury normal school closed on Saturday last after a decidedly successful term of four weeks, during which the attendance reached a total of, 156 teacher students. The subjects in which instruction was given were those which would be useful for teachers in qualifying for high grade certificates. The instructors were some of the prominent normal school instructors of the state.

The summer school, which was considered and the county should be resulted to the church should be resulted to the summer of the legacy. DERBY'S MILK SUPPLY. Prof. Conn Says It Is a Disgrace to Fing Permit Sale of Samples Tested by Health Officers F. A., Elmes, in working to improve the milk supply of Derby, recently sent ten samples of milk to Prof. Conn, the state chemist, to have it analyzed. One or two of these samples were taken from the carts from which other samples had been taken and tested and had proved impure. They were sent on to see if there had been any improvement. The other samples were taken from retailers, and were the first forwarded from these places.

And go to Sunday school,
To tell the darling children
How to keep the golden rule.
To marry couples now and then,
And christen all the kids,
To have the people quote me.
And to comfort all the "wids,"

We could not do without them.

And we have no wish to try.
They're good companions, all of them.
